

Central County Corridor Major Investment Study

OPEN HOUSES

Focused on Improving Transportation and Quality of Life

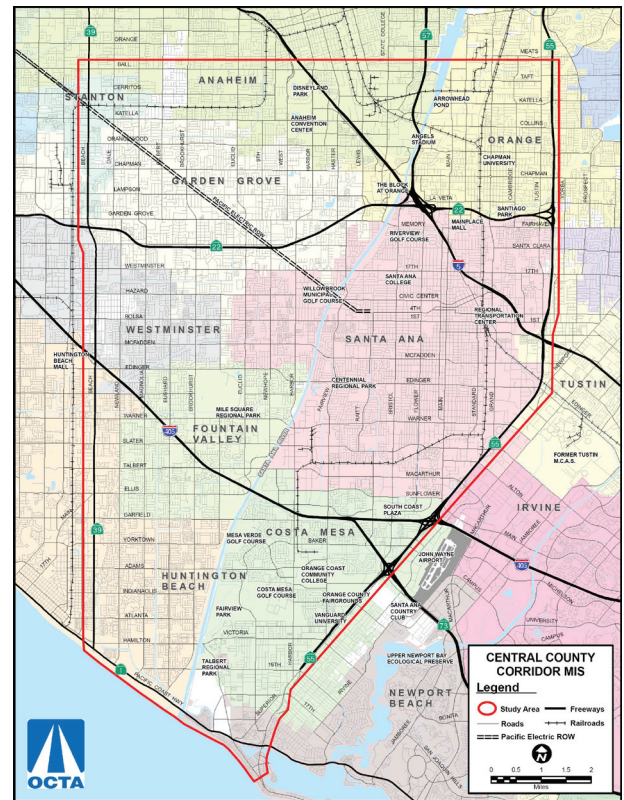

Central Orange County is a great place to live and work, but it's also one of the most heavily congested areas in Southern California. By 2035 traffic will significantly increase, so identifying potential transportation improvements that keep us moving in the right direction is very important.

Attend an Open House and Tell Us What You Think

Join the Orange County Transportation Authority (OCTA) as it presents potential transportation improvement projects for central Orange County at three public open houses. In addition to providing a great opportunity for you to comment on potential transportation improvements for the future, the open houses will also provide an excellent chance for you to re-familiarize yourself with projects already being developed.

Happening in June, the open houses will take place in Garden Grove, Fountain Valley and Tustin. From streets to freeways to transit, you'll have the chance to focus on what mode of transportation matters most to you. Some of the possible transportation improvements under consideration include:

- Optimizing over 60 intersections so that traffic moves more efficiently
- Improving the SR-22/I-5/SR-57 Freeway Interchange
- Extending the SR-55 HOV lanes from the I-405 to 19th Street
- Introducing three (3) Bus Rapid Transit (BRT) routes on key north-south streets
- Evaluating ways to increase capacity and improve traffic flow on Beach and Harbor Boulevards

The Central County Corridor Major Investment Study is intended to identify transportation improvements that help meet future travel demand within central Orange County. The lack of north-south travel options has been identified as a key problem in the future. Possible transportation projects include improving streets, freeways, and transit.
